

Tin Mitzvah

The Soup Movement

BEN DAVIS

To do a mitzvah for our planet, let us recycle a used tin.

Not only are you doing something positive for the environment, you also save time and money by using something that is always available and practically free.

When you have decided what to do with your tin, ask an adult to help you find an empty tin can and rinse it out to remove any food.

If you soak the tin in warm water, the label can be removed much easier. Make sure there are no sharp edges that can harm you.

Besides making great craft and décor projects, tin cans are also frequently used for storing and organizing. Think about re-using or re-purposing your tin.

Have a good hunt around your home for interesting items that you can recycle. Examples are items like buttons, sequins, rope, paint, card, felt, ribbon, beads, stickers, glitter, fabric, wrapping paper, cotton wool, wool, dried pasta, old small toys etc. Be creative!

You may want to gift your tin as a mitzvah.
